

CSPO Certified Scrum Product Owner (Scrum Alliance)

COURSE OVERVIEW

NextUp's Certified Scrum Product Owner (CSPO) training is a two-day course that provides an understanding of how Scrum transforms concepts and goals into a product backlog, user stories, and ultimately, product value. Discover how to juggle stakeholder demands, get hands-on practice developing product goals, and learn how to understand your customers better. This highly interactive class delves into creating requirements in an Agile environment, implementing effective backlog prioritization, long-term and short-term planning, and providing vision.

WHO WILL BENEFIT FROM THIS COURSE?

This course is ideal for Product Owners, business analysts, testers, project managers, and anyone involved with requirements, prioritization, gathering needs, and product management in dynamic environments. Anyone who enjoys or wants to become more familiar with the business side of projects can benefit from becoming a Certified Scrum Product Owner.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

This course begins with an overview of the Agile and Scrum frameworks. From there, the curriculum dives into:

- What a Product Owner does and essential skills
- How to define a product goal and deliver tangible value
- Understanding product roadmaps, and product backlogs
- Creating user stories and Agile specifications
- Techniques for prioritization and backlog refinement
